

The university project consists in creating a proposal for the future main center of dance in Berlin. The proposal is created in collaboration with Hadil-Ornella Khuri.

The university semester included thorough studies in regards to site's urban context, functions of a dance center and how the art of "dancing" can be translated into architecture.

Street level